SERVANT MURDERS FORMER S. F. WOMAN

Mrs. Eleanor Brigham Choked and Beaten to Death

Orange, N. J.—The Essex County Grand Jury has indicted William Battles, 19-year-old negro, who was said to have confessed to the murder of Mrs. Charles F. Brigham.

Captain Thomas Ryan of the Orange police said that the youth admitted the slaying and gave robbery as his motive.

It was learned from authoritative sources that the prisoner told his questioners that late in the afternoon Mrs. Brigham sent him into the cellar to put coal on the furnace fire. On the way he stumbled and fell down the stairs. Mrs. Brigham rushed to the cellar to see if he was injured.

At that time he is alleged to have said, he determined to attack Mrs. Brigham and loot the house. He had been planning to do this for some time, according to the alleged confession.

Tragedy Disclosed to Relative

San Francisco—Word was received here by R. D. Brigham, vice president of the Anglo-California Trust Company, of the killing, by a negro servant, in Orange, N. J., of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Eleanor L. Brigham, San Francisco woman, and wife of Charles Brigham, formerly manager of the Charles R. de Bevoise Company on the Pacific Coast.

The message received by Brigham gave few details, but according to press dispatches his sister-in-law's body was discovered in a preserve closet in her home. She had been choked to death with a rope from a swing in which she had rocked her children.

HOUSE BURGLARS ARRESTED

$100,000 S. F. Loot Laid to Gang Captured After Gun Battle

San Francisco—Five members of a gang of ten who the police assert have robbed homes here and in the peninsular towns of more than $100,000 worth of loot in the past four months have been arrested by San Francisco police. Three of the five are negroes.

Dillard Porter, a negro, was captured after a running gun battle with Detective Irving Findlay.

Others of the gang arrested by officers operating under Detective Dick Tatham are Robert Politek, William Siegman, hotel runner at the Ferry building; Albert Young, alias Moon, and Mrs. Young.

Politek and Siegman are white men and the police say the negroes operated under their instructions.

The police recovered more than $10,000 worth of property in Politek's room that had been stolen from San Francisco homes.

CALIF. FREIGHT TRAINS CRASH

Two Trainmen Injured in W. P. Wreck

Quincy—Two men were injured and three others badly shaken up and bruised as a result of a head-on collision between two Western Pacific freight trains near here. The injured are:

Thomas Irving, conductor.

W. S. Barton, brakeman.

The three men shaken up in the wreck were: T. H. James, engineer; W. F. Edwards, fireman and another brakeman named Dryden.

Blame for the collision is placed on a misunderstanding of orders by the crew of the west bound freight No. 61. The west bound train was due to stop at the junction point to wait for the east bound train to pass, it is officially stated, but went past the stopping point.

SCREEN "DOUBLE" IS KILLED

Movie Stunt Man Dead After Daredevil Leap From Plane

Riverside—A verdict of death by pneumonia, brought on by injuries, was returned here by a coroner's jury at an inquest over the body of Jean ("Daredevil") Perkins Los Angeles motion picture actor, who attempted to leap from an airplane to a speeding train here several days ago and who died in a Riverside hospital from consequent injuries.

Perkins was said to have been "doubling" for a screen star who lacked the aerobatic skill to perform all of the "stunts" called for in the scenario of a "thriller."

Two Injured When S. P. Trains Collide

Los Angeles—One woman passenger and a dining room employe on the Southern Pacific Sunset Express from San Francisco to New Orleans were injured when a westbound freight train of sixty cars crashed into the passenger train at Rillite station, seventeen miles west of Tucson, Ariz. The woman's back was injured and the negro was scalded. Six freight cars were derailed and both engines damaged.

WRECKED SAILORS SAVED FROM SEA

Mendocino Citizens in Daring Work of Rescue

Mendocino City.—After clinging to the bare sea-washed rocks on a narrow ledge of a cliff for three hours, eight sailors were rescued at Russian Gulch, two miles north of here.

A few feet below, their craft, the gas schooner Stockton City, a coastwise cargo vessel, was being dashed to pieces in a heavy sea, after dragging its anchor in the storm which swept the coast during the previous night.

When their vessel was plunged on the rocks, the eight members of the crew fought their way over the rocks through the breaking surf and climbed up the side of the stone wall until help arrived at dawn.

The rescue of the men by citizens from Mendocino City will go down in history for its daring.

Citizens attracted to the scene by distress rockets, lowered ropes over the side of the precipice, but the sailors, unable to assist themselves, continued to cling desperately to the wall, fearing to loosen their hold as they became stiffened from exposure.

Then it was that several of the rescuers volunteered to go down the wall. After two hours of effort, during which every moment was filled with peril with giant waves lashing high over the rocks and drenching the men, and with darkness adding further danger, the first man was pulled up over the top.

At dawn all the sailors were rescued. They were rushed to Mendocino City, where all were suffering from exposure and cuts from the jagged rocks.

Their ship is a total loss. She broke up in the surf as her crew were yet clinging to the rocks. Only her bow protrudes above the turbulent waters. Her cargo litters the beach and is being salvaged by villagers.

North bound to Fort Bragg from San Francisco, the Stockton City had a cargo of general merchandise. She was under command of Captain Victor Helgas, who resides at Burlingame. She is owned by the Wagner Leather Company. Captain Helgas was in Fort Bragg at the time of the wreck.

CABIN BECOMES FIRE TRAP

San Joaquin Rancher Dies of Explosion Burns

Fresno—Trapped in a small ranch cabin in an isolated section near San Joaquin, when a 5-gallon can of kerosene exploded in his arms, John Clemens, San Joaquin rancher, died at the county hospital here from burns.

Clemens had attempted to ignite a fire by pouring kerosene from the can upon it. The flames leaped into the air and the large can of oil exploded, throwing flames about the little room and setting fire to the man's clothes. Fighting his way to the door, Clemens found that he had trapped himself in the burning building by locking the door.

Neighbors living a mile distant found the half-conscious man a short distance from the house, where Clemens had evidently sought to beat out the flames by rolling in some sand.

AUTHOR'S HOME BURNS

Los Angeles.—The country home of John Stevens McGroarty, widely known author and dramatist, was destroyed by fire, together with its contents. It was located at Tujunga, a few miles from Los Angeles and overlooking the city. McGroarty's extensive library and his own manuscripts were in a separate study and were not destroyed.

FIRST CHINESE SCHOOL

Hanford—Dr. Koliang Yih, Chinese consul general at San Francisco, officiated at the dedication here of the first Chinese-owned school building in America—a $10,000 structure financed by contributions from local Chinese residents.

HYDE WRITES GRAPHIC LETTER FROM C. A.

We have the privilege this week of publishing a letter written by Geo. E. Hyde to his son, Ralph, which gives a very good presentation of conditions in part of Central America. We are sure our readers will enjoy it.

Mr. and Mrs. Hyde are now in the eastern part of the United States, having visited Cuba, Miami and Palm Bearh since this letter was sent.

En Route, Steamship Columbia.
Dec. 7, 1922.

We steamed into the harbor of Corinto, Nicaragua, at 6 A. M. and remained until 5 p. m. at the wharf, then moved away from the wharf into harbor and remanied at anchor there until tide could come up to give sufficient water over the circuitous channel entrance. The bar there prevents a ship as heavily loaded as ours from coming in only at high tide. I heard them go out and heard the man at the line at the bow of the boat call the depths.

Corinto, Nicargua, is a beautiful city, located on a low sandy peninsular with a good bay of deep water. At the southern part of the entrance is a long low island containing the prison of Nicaragua. Immense groves of cocoanuts abound and bananas are abundant. Just east of Corinto, about thirty miles away, is a very high mountain and like many other Central American mountains comes up to a sharp peak. There are two just behind San Jose, De Guatemala, that are 12000 feet high each and have also pointed peaks. One of these mountains near Corinto is an ancient volcanic crater. There is one mountain farther down in the center of Nicaragua that is active now and gives forth smoke all of the time. This mountain about five years ago erupted gray ashes one whole day, until the sun was obscured.

We went ashore at Corinto and found the town exceptionally clean and tidy. The streets are not macadamized but are covered with grass and look novel to a person accustomed to paved streets. The only traffic there seems to be ox cart. The oxen go along at a snail's pace, the driver walks along ahead of his team and guides by a bamboo pole with a sharp brad at the end and controls the animal by poking it in the sides. It requires no violence, simply a little pressure on the sides of their shoulders. The usual loud and vulgar language that characterizes the American ox driver was noted for its absence. The natives are as slow and deliberate as their animals. The cart has a long log for a pole, at the end, the cross beam is lashed by heavy rawhide strips around the horns and the pulling is by this means. The cart is roughly made with solid, hard wood wheels at least four feet high, equipped with an iron bushing at the hubs and running on a hard wood axle. This mode for conveying merchandise takes care of all heavy loads, but the lighter articles are brought into town in baskets on the heads of the female members of the community. Little girls scarcely ten years old may be seen carrying baskets at least 2½ feet in diameter and six inches deep, full of sweet corn on the ears with husks on. They walk along very erect apparently without concern or show of inconvenience from the load.

In the village they sit on the side walks and on the sides of streets in the shade of houses and cry their wares. All manner of food common to these localities is so offered for sale. Here the exchange on money is on a parity with our money and is the only Central American state where it is. This is due to the protectorate given by the United States to Nicaragua and was given to aid a prominent New York firm of bankers who, in 1914, made a loan of five million dollars to this state and required the U. S. Government through the consulate here to act as custodian of all duties on imported goods at this port, also to act as receiver of the only railroad of this state going over the state from west to east shores. The U. S. Government has stationed here guards of marines to protect against the brigandry of such duties. The loan is about repaid with interest and now the poeple fear that when the marines will be withdrawn they will be at the mercy of revolutionists who will loot the town. The marines have made this town a fit place to live and trade has made the merchants here prosperous. Public schools are well conducted and one can see the children with their books and slates going to and from school. To us it was a pleasant surprise to see so much of modern life so markedly different from all other places on this coast of Mexico and other Central American states so far visited by us. A bank is doing good business and a large hotel is open and well patronized. All of the wood work of the inside and out of the hotel is Spanish cedar and much of the interior is finished with mahogany.

This bay abounds with maneating sharks and large turtles. We saw none of them but any living animal unluckily getting into the bay will be a quick and easy victim of these fierce fish. The bath houses on the magnificent beach have a barricade around the waters where the bathers expect to cavort, for it would be certain death for a bather to risk a swim outside of these fences.

Here, like all the other places visited on this coast, there are many wretched creatures about the docks and streets begging for money, or who have a few simple articles to sell. Most of the towns and states have a currency of their own, which is of low value compared with United States currency. Guatemala money is only worth thirty to one of ours. You pay five cents for a postage stamp that has a printed value on it of $1.50. Americans are always welcome in all of these places because they spend money freely and provide much revenue to all the natives. It is surprising to see how little these people need to provide the necessary articles of every day living and they seem contented and happy. What a contrast it provides to our way of living. We require so much that it forces us to work hard to meet even the most meagre of our desires and are we happier? There seems to be an entire absence among these people of any ambition as we understand it. A man will work as a stevedore here for thirty cents a day and that is not steady work either. Can it be that we are too elaborate in our desires, far beyond any real necessity? Well, it is all in a lifetime and for the people themselves to decide.

GEO. E. HYDE.

CAMPBELL MASONS INSTALL OFFICERS

Monday night Charity lodge, No. 362, F & A. M., installed officers for the new term. The installing officer was T. M. Wright, inspector from San Jose. The following officers were installed: W. M., T. A. Robinson; S. W., Wilbur Mitchell; J. W., Leon Miller; J. D., K. M. Knopf; S. S., M. J. Bohnett; J. S., Benj. Wade; marshal, W. C. Bohnett; tyler, James Fablinger; chaplain, Rev. Wm. Eckles; secretary, J. J. Pardee; treasurer, R. Alison.

At the conclusion of the meeting the members adjourned to the banquet room, where a delicious supper had been prepared.

A number of interesting and entertaining talks were made at the banquet, among them being one by Inspector Wright, his remarks being right to the point and enthusiastically applauded.

Geo. F. Scranton and family spent part of the holiday season in Pacific Grove, their home before coming to Campbell. They made the trip in their new Star which they purchased recently from I. H. Grim.

MRS. ARNOTT GOES TO HER REWARD

Death came Tuesday as a welcome release to Mrs. Martha Jane Arnott, who has been at the borderland of the other world for several weeks.

Martha Jane Patten was born in Minneapolis, Minnesota, March 23, 1856, and on Dec. 26, 1872 was married to Philander Arnott. They made their home for some time in Minnesota and then in Iowa, coming to Campbell in 1905.

There were five children, James H. Arnott having preceded his mother to the heavenly home when but twenty years of age.

The other children are Mrs. Paul L. Darling, of Glendale, who has spent some time in Campbell since her return from the African mission fields; Myrtle Belle, who has been her parents mainstay for years; Edward E. also of Campbell; and Charles G. of East Palestine, Ohio.

Mrs. Arnott from her early years was an earnest Christian, singing in the choir of the churches she attended and by her Christian example and teachings was instrumental in bringing all of her children into the church.

During the past years she had suffered intensely with rheumatism and complications, being confined to a wheel chair for several years and for some time had been bed ridden. During all of her suffering she had shown the same wonderful patience and cheerful disposition which characterized her whole life.

Funeral services were held yesterday from the Methodist church, the Rev. W. E. Eckles in charge, assisted by the Rev. F. C. Farr.

The choir, Mrs. A. I. Cramer, Mrs. Eckles, D. H. Cramer and Mrs. W. I. Merrill, sang the hymns which were the choice of Mrs. Arnott, herself, "Asleep in Jesus," "Sometime We'll Understand," and Lead, Kindly Light," and Mrs. Cramer also sang "Some Sweet Day, Bye and Bye" as a solo. Mrs. D. H. Cramer acted as organist.

The following old friends served as pall-bearers, W. R. Coupland, W. C. Cutting, Joseph Bohnett, James Fablinger, F. S. Newcomb, and M. A. Ross, and interment was in Los Gatos cemetery.

Besides the children and husband already named, Mrs. Arnott is survived by a brother, Henry S. Patten, living in San Gabriel, and a sister, Mrs. Lillie Paynes, of Anacortes, Wash.

C. I. C. TO HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET

Plans are being made to hold the Campbell Improvement Club annual banquet next Friday, January 12th, in the parlors of the Congregational church. The supper will be served by the ladies of the Guild and tickets will be $1.00 per plate.

E. R. Kennedy has charge of the arrangements for the banquet proper and Dr. W. I. Merrill will arrange the program.

Tickets will be on sale soon and should be purchased early so that the ladies will know how many to prepare for.

The arrangements are not fully completed and there is a possibility that the affair will be postponed one week.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL NOTES

After a pleasant vacation we all came back to school with smiling faces and high hopes of moving into our new home soon. But, alas, our hopes have been blighted. Nevertheless, we hope to get there fairly soon.

There is a basketball game scheduled for this coming Friday with the Los Gatos teams. Of course, we'll win. Watch next week for the score.

SENATOR OSBORNE PREDICTS SUCCESS FOR ADMINISTRATION

Dr. O. E. Osborne in speaking of his resumption of duties at Sacramento as a member of the State Senate from this district, in an interview with the Mail-News, said among other things:

I believe we are about to write another and a most important chapter in state history. If my political impressions are correct much of the old order of things died with the year just gone and we are to witness the birth of a new regime in state affairs..

I am, frankly, optomistic to the extent of believing it will be found to be for the best. As a Progressive I have no fears for the so-called prgressive measures which have made California famous and great. I am a believer in the sincerity of Governor Richardson and admire his courage in standing firmly by his convictions. He has assured us there is to be no backward turn nor slighting of the things worth while. What else matters?

For several years the scales have been overweighed by appreciation of the tax payers money on the sentimental side leaving the business side "up in the air." I understand Governor Richardson's efforts are to be directed to restore the equipoiise and make the scales balance in equal justice to both our humanitarian instincts and our sounder business judgments. In these efforts he shall have my unqualified support. He is entitled to the fullest co-operation by the members of the legislature in working out to their successful finality his programme along these lines.

Let us not be hasty in prejudging. Team work counts and the thing at issue is state service. It is too important to be lightly sacrificed. Certain so-called economies do not bring efficiency in service. But true efficiency in service necessarily produces economies. It is possible to so re-organize the business of the state government that under experienced and efficient office holders, waste may be eliminated and real economy in administration secured. This is the kind of state service best citizens are looking for and I will indeed be glad if I shall be permitted to figure, even in a small degree, in aiding Governor Richardson in bringing this about.

PRUNE GROWERS PUT ASSOCIATION ON NEW BASIS

Capital assets of the old California Prune and Apricot Growers' Association, Inc., which has been reorganized as the California Prune and Apricot Growers' Association, remained intact during the five years of the former corporation's existence according to eports made public by association officials here today.

Under the new basis of organization adopted by the association there will be no capital stock subscribed, the association officials contemplating operation of the organization as a non-profit corporation. Theer will be, however, an advance fund to which the members have agreed to contribute on the same basis as they formerly did in subscribing for stock.

Final steps in the process of changing the former corporation into the new association are being contemplated this week. The members of the association are expressing gratification over the fact that the initial capital, which represents an amount in excess of $1,000 000, has been maintained at its original value during the past five years and that it is being turned over to the new association on such a basis.

BUSINESS FIRMS WARNED AGAINST FAKE SCHEMES

The national vigilance committee of the Associated Advertising clubs of the World is warning merchants of the activities of H. B. Jackson, claiming to represent the National Business Men's association of Chicago, who is approaching business men with a scheme of legal representation in all matters for the year by a $10 membership in this association, the scheme being practically the same as that of T. H. McGurk, against whom warning was made some time ago. Another scheme is that of one Stanley Parker who is soliciting churches to publish calendars to be paid for by advertising space thereon. This man, according to the vigilance committee, is being sought by a firm in Virginia. In case either scheme is brought to the notice of local business men they are being advised to get in touch with the police, and in the case of Parker to notify the Better Business Bureau of Richmond, Virginia.

IF Tom Jones had saved $5 a month regularly for the last ten years, his principal would now be $600. Besides, at 4 per cent compounded, his money would have earned interest amounting to $136-.18. In other words, by this time he would have a nice total to his savings credit of $736.18.

IF Tom had somehow managed to make his monthly savings $10, over the ten-year period, the principal would now be $1,200, the earned interest $272.43, and the total $1,472.43.

IF Jones had pinched still harder and made it $20 a month, principal and interest would make the snug sum of $2,944.36.

IF he had strained a point and put by $30 monthly, he'd possess to his credit the handsome amount of$4,417.24.

IF you or anyone else would save for the next ten years any of the amounts that our friend here might have saved in the last ten, at the end of the decade you or that other person would actually have in the bank just what Tom Jones has here on paper.

IF you'll begin right now, or by January 10, we'll do something rather wonderful for you. We'll turn time back. We will credit your account from January 1, and send you off to a good start for 1933.

Town Tales Tersely Told

E. C. Merrill and family arrived Monday evening from their trip to Los Angeles.

John F. Duncan has been confined to his home since the New Year, with an attack of "flu."

Mrs. Naylor and daughter, Miss Hancie, spent part of the holiday vacation in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. A. Moore and baby spent the Christmas week in Benecia the guests of his brother, Bill.

J. H. Grim and family are now established in their new home at the corner of Page St. and Campbell Ave.

Notice is called to the change of meeting place of the W. C. T. U. which will be at Mrs. F. S. Newcomb's home.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Mendel entertained at a family dinner party on New Year's Day, covers being laid for fourteen.

Glen Taylor, former resident of Campbell, was down from San Francisco Friday saying "Hello" to his friends here.

H. P. Knappen, who is visiting at the H. C. Smith home, returned Tuesday from a few days spent at Pacific Grove and neighboring points.

Flora May Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will E. Wright, formerly of Campbell and now living in Pacific Grove, is the guest of her friend, Miss Dorothy Scranton.

Mrs. Geo. Phelps and Miss Stella Leviston spent part of the holiday time in Bakersfield with Mr. and Mrs. Virgil R. Miser. Mrs. Miser will be remembered as Miss Doris Leviston.

Mrs. Wm. Bachman entertained the Cambrian Neighborhood Club last week Thursday. Refreshments were served by the hostess following a pleasant hour spent in chatting over the fancy work.

The Campbell schools reopened Tuesday, but not in the new buildings. Work is being pushed as rapidly as possible on the grammar school and the transfer will be made at the earliest possible day.

Mrs. Frances Swane and son, Elwood, returned to Colinga, Saturday after spending part of the holiday vacation here. There was quite a reunion at the Fablinger home over Christmas, three daughters and families being here for the occasion, Mrs. Swane, Mrs. Burke and Mrs. Rorke.

Jas. A. Moore has an announcement in this issue of the opening of the Rapid Shoe Repair Shop in the Campbell Hotel. Mr. Moore has been employed by E. E. Sower for some time and has made quite a circle of friends and acquaintances and will doubtless find a field for his work, of which repairing ladies shoes will be a specialty.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Standish entertained a small circle of friends Monday at six o'clock dinner, when a delicious three course repast was served. Places were laid for the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. H. Schuette, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. R. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. H. Schuette, Jr., all of San Jose, and Mr and Mrs. F. Stuhlfier of Lindsay.

J. E. Gamo, who has the Little Cash Grocery opposite the depot and delivered ice the past summer, met with an unfortunate accident Wednesday. While cranking his auto at San Jose the crank slipped and struck his arm, causing a compound fracture of the forearm close to the wrist, and cutting a gash in the thumb that required three stitches to close.

Saturday the Grangers of the County will gather in Campbell for an all day session. The morning will be devoted to a meeting of Pomona grange. After a sumptuous basket lunch (it's safe to say sumptuous because they always are) there will be a joint installation of officers for the Gilroy, Mountain View, San Jose and Campbell granges. These occasions are very popular with the Grangers and a large attendance is always assured.

Mrs. W. C. Bohnett is spending the week in San Francisco with relatives.

Dr. W. I. Merrill and family returned Saturday from their trip to San Luis Obispo, bringing Mrs. Merrill's mother, Mrs. Cookson, back with them.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Gould of Litchfield, Minnesota, have come to Campbell to spend the remainder of the winter with their niece, Mrs. Clara Gilman.

New Year's Eve coming on Sunday evening there were not the usual hilarity and festivities incident to the day, but the Methodist church held a watch party and informed the community of the advent of 1923 by ringing the church bell.

Yale Maxon was host to the Intermediate C. E's at a holiday party Thursday of last week. Over a score of the young people responded to his invitation and spent a very pleasant evening together with Mr. and Mrs. Maxon, Mrs. Theodore Cutting and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Eckles to help direct their activities.

The High School Basket Ball team played a closely contested game with the Circle Y quintet Saturday evening at the Y. M. C. A., losing by five points—25 to 20.

Campbell's line-up was: Forwards, Murphy and Lumb; Center, Sawyer; Guards, Reed and Shell; substitutes, Blaine and Feathers.

E. W. Ohlen has been making extensive improvements to his hatchery on Santa Clara-Los Gatos Road. The incubator capacity has been doubled, the building being now 40 ft. by 80 ft. and will hold 135 machines. Mr. Ohlen is anticipating a busy season for 1923.

Campbell is in the front ranks of the state for baby chicks and each year increases the output.

The January meeting of the High School P. T. A. will be held Tuesday, January 9, at 3:30 at the high school. Mrs. Geo. Miller, Mrs. L. S. Shelley and Miss Jenkins will be in charge of the program, which will be a demonstration of the work of the Camp Fire girls of which these ladies are in charge for the Campbell and Cambrian schools. All mothers of high school students are especially invited and a cordial invitation is extended to all women interested in the welfare of children and our public schools.

Last week "Uncle Joe" Bohnett was the victim of automobile thieves. During the night Wednesday his machine was taken from the garage at his home on Los Gatos Road. Within a short time after the sheriff's office and Traffic Officer Pacheco had been notified the car was found on Jackson street in Santa Clara.

A party residing in that vicinity heard a noise about four o'clock in the morning and raising the window shades to investigate saw two men run from a machine. The car was uninjured but the auto robe was missing.

FRISBEE'S PET DOG DIES

The beautiful snow white thoroughbred Eskimo Silk Spitz Dog "Buster", who has been seen and admired by so many on our streets during the past two years, passed peacefully away Thursday night, December 28th, 1922, at the Frisbee-Neff residence, 204 N. Central Ave.

President Harding says:—"It isn't orthodox to ascribe a Soul to a Dog, if Soul means Immortality". But who is there of us, who has not had a pet Dog sometime during our life, and can recall the real pangs of sorrow, and the tears shed when he died.

"Buster" had been an unusually intelligent and faithful pet of Mr. Frisbee's in all his travels during the past twelve years, and is greatly missed by him. He was loyal and loving. He was faithful, sympathetic, more than humanly so sometimes, for no one could take the place of his master, who was always kind to him. He couldn't speak our language, though he somehow understood, which was plainly shown by his expressive brown eyes and wagging tail, and other plainly shown expressions of a knowing Dog. No, perhaps he has no Soul; but in these things he has Soul; but in these things are the essence of Soul, and the Spirit of a lovable happy life.

WHY

Indians Mark Desert Springs With Small Rock Heaps

In traveling over the plains of western Texas one now and then comes upon little isolated heaps of rocks, in twos, that at first glance seem not at all remarkable.

After a time, however, one notices that one heap is generally about three feet high and the other about a foot lower. The two are always within a few feet of each other and usually on an elevation or a plateau commanding a view of the country for five miles or more. The rocks are roughly heaped together, as if left by children at play.

In time one learns the significance of these rock heaps, as he talks with some of the Indians, who know by heart all the legends and customs and deeds of their people.

According to these Indians, when the Great Spirit lapped up the mighty rivers of the plains, he left springs and water basins here and there for the antelope and the Indians. These the antelope easily found by scent, but the Indian had to search long and anxiously for them. Once found, they were seldom lost, thanks to these rude rock heaps.

You may see an Indian crouch down behind the taller heap, sight over the low one and mark the farthest object in a straight line, which is likely to be a clump of bushes on the horizon. Then he rides toward these bushes and finds—not water, as he expected, but two other heaps of rocks.

Sighting as before, and taking a rock-faced cliff, perhaps toward the southwest, as a goal, he rides a couple of miles farther, and there, trickling out from beneath the cliff's rocky brow, is a spring of fresh, clear water.

It is said that whenever a band of Indians come upon a new spring they built the rock heaps along the trail. At any rate, it appears that these rude signposts lead either to water or to places that show traces of a former watercourse.—Christian Science Monitor.

WATCH FOR DANGER SIGNAL

Why One Should Pause for Reflection When Daily Task Becomes Easy of Accomplishment.

Has your work become very easy? Do you find you could do it with little effort? Has it ceased to impose any strain or fatigue upon you? Do you no longer feel loss of vitality after a long spell of it? Can you now do it "as easy as water rolls off a duck's back?" If so, look out. Do some stock-taking. Examine your output. Analyze your attitude towards your work. Ask yourself whether you are putting your whole self, your whole heart and soul into your job. Ponder whether you are exerting yourself to the utmost to produce the maximum results.

No work should be easy if done with all one's might and main. Every job should "take it out of a man" if he expends every ounce of his energy in doing it the very best way within his power. Work done with little effort is liable to yield little result. Every job can be done excellently or indifferently. Excellence necessitates effort—hard, sustained, concentrated effort.

So, if you are sleeping over your job, instead of sweating over it, overhaul yourself.—Forbes Magazine.

Why Helicopter Is of Little Value.

While the Brennan helicopter is expected to revolutionize civil flying, a British artillery colonel opines it will not be of much benefit to armies in the event of war.

According to the London Graphic, this officer says such a machine would prove an easy mark for a modern "archie" or aircraft gun, its very stability proving its downfall. "It was difficult," he declared, "to hit an ordinary airplane flying 10,000 feet high at the rate of 100 miles an hour, but we did it. What about a stationary one?"

When it was pointed out to him that the new machine claimed to be practically invisible at 5,000 feet, the officer replied: "With modern developments in anti-aircraft artillery we could plaster the whole area with high-explosive shells, from the explosion of which nothing could escape."

Why Icebergs Can't Be Measured.

It is practically impossible to obtain the measurements of an iceberg below and above water on account of its size; and, probably for that reason, the statistics given by different authorities vary considerably. The Encyclopaedia Britannica says, when describing icebergs, that, "Only one-ninth of the mass of ice is seen above water," —while in other works statements are made that icebergs float with about one-eighth of their volume above the surface of the water and seven-eighths below it, and that they float with only one-seventh or one-sixth of the ice above the surface of the sea.

Why He Enjoyed It.

"How can you wear a dreamy look when that jazz orchestra is making such an infernal racket?"

"It carries me back to my happy childhood," said the cabaret patron. "I was brought up in the shadow of a boiler factory."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Why He Was Good Match.

"She's making a fine match."

"That so? I understand the young man is very wild in his ways."

"Wild. He is. Drinks a lot and does all manner of things he shouldn't, but it's a good match. His folks have a lot of money."

MRS. TOLES LEAVING

Mrs. Julia Toles has sold her large home on Santa Clara Road, opposite the high school, to H. F. Scholing, and will be leaving Campbell this week. After making a business trip to Chicago which will occupy about a month, she and her granddaughter, Henrietta, will make their home in San Francisco, where Mrs. Toles has a son and daughter living.

Mr. Scholing is a man of family with two children of high school age, and comes here from San Jose, having resided on Lincoln Avenue in the Willows.

Mrs. Toles has been a very active and helpful citizen, an ardent war worker and energetic member of several of the women's organizations, where her ready response to calls for workers will be sorely missed, and the high school will lose one of the senior class in Henrietta's departure. We wish for them a happy time in their new home.

THE P. M. G.'S HOME

Postmaster Smith is in receipt of an attractive little booklet showing Postmaster General Hubert Work's home and sanitarium at Pueblo, Colo.

"Woodcraft" the sanitarium is in charge of Dr. C. W. Thompson, brother of Mrs. Herbert Duncan, Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Pixley and all are living in the Hubert Work home at present. The grounds are spacious and beautifully parked and one might be tempted to feign illness to recuperate there.

W. C. T. U.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union met with Mrs. Whitman on Wednesday P. M. with the president, Mrs. Wilson, in the chair. The usual helpful devotional service and roll call preceded the business session. Special reference was made to the excellent talk by Mrs. Ellen R. Smith upon the value of Bible study as incomparable models of literature in the schools of our country.

Mrs. Wilson reported matters of interest to be taken up by local unions, as recommended by the county executive board, the budget for the coming year being an important item; another was the voting of a protest regarding the return of Roscoe Arbuckle to the screens, altho it seems rather improbable that in the face of such wide-spread disfavor such may be the case.

The question of child-welfare brings out from the motherhood of the land thru the W. C. T. U. and Federated Women's Clubs over a million protsts and thro the Teachers' Association 500,000 more by class room teachers, who have a high appreciation of the value of the right kind of motion pictures and would like to know that only pictures will be presented of a wholesome nature by one whose character is not that of a "mere clod of a man" whose past record is one of unspeakable taint. Added to these is the great body of pastors and religious teachers. All are undoubtedly willing to lend a hand in reclaiming the truly penitent sinner, but Arbuckle's Christmas talk expresses no repentance but rather a sneer at preachers. He quotes "Judge not that ye be not judged," forgetting that first there must be a confession of sins instead of attempted justification of his past. It is said that hundreds of cities have sent word they will not allow Arbuckle films to be shown. Let us hope that the agitation may do good and that the motion picture business may receive an impulse for higher ideals than ever before.

The enjoyment of a social hour, victrola music and home-made candies brought to a close another pleasant, profitable meeting of this band of earnest women.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Kennedy on January 10th when it is hoped there may be a large attendance.
